Persimmon Ridge to host women's championship

Business First of Louisville

The 77th annual Women's Trans Amateur Championship will be held July 9 to 14 at Persimmon Ridge Golf Club, located in the northwestern corner of Shelby County, near the Oldham and Jefferson county lines.

The 18-hole championship course, which is open year-round, was planned by golf-course architect Arthur Hills.

The first two days consist of qualifying rounds for the match-play event. Persimmon Ridge's head golf pro is Ron Snider. Participants may register online.
